

PARTNERING FOR EQUITY

EMBEDDING CULTURAL SAFETY IN HEALTH SERVICES

The National Safety and Quality Health Service Standards (NSQHSS) (2nd ed) specifically includes the needs of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples within the health service system.

CATSINaM has devised a Framework and an associated 2-day training workshop to assist health service staff to implement the NSQHSS within a cultural safety lens. Our framework aims to provide the basis for offering practical, achievable guidelines for meeting the new standards as well as promoting and improving cultural safety at all levels of health service decision making and service delivery. For each standard, we have considered ways of knowing, being and doing to promote cultural safety and building partnerships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples and communities being a strong focus in this Framework.
